More freedom, opportunity, and adventure

Located in the heart of the South Cariboo, 100 Mile House offers you a huge range of activities and limitless adventure, steps from your front door.

Rush hour traffic won't keep you from cheering on your children at their after-school games or getting to your favourite activities a half hour after the workday ends.

Affordable housing and a thriving economy create extra income, allowing you to spend more time doing what you want.

If you crave open spaces and beautiful natural surroundings, our neighbourhood trails, parks, and stunning ecosystems provide unique experiences right in your new backyard. Whether you prefer low-mobility walking trails, kayaking, or even extreme snowmobiling, there are activities for every skill and thrill level.

100 Mile House gives you many of the conveniences of the city, along with open space, new opportunities, and a welcoming community. You'll find smiles, hellos, and neighbourly chit-chat with friendly people everywhere.

This is life every day in 100 Mile House.

More natural beauty

Nestled on the Fraser Plateau between the Coastal and Rocky Mountain ranges in South Central British Columbia, 100 Mile House is in close proximity to varied ecosystems, including semi-deserts, marshes, grasslands, coniferous forests, and a cedar wet belt. Regional wildlife is diverse, with rainbow trout, great blue herons, black bears, mule deer, moose, and more. In town, you can take a leisurely walk around our Marsh Trail and learn something new about the bird life by viewing the information markers at your own pace.

More sunshine

In 100 Mile House, 73% of available daylight is sunny! Situated 927 metres above sea level, we have mild summers and moderately cold winters that allow you to engage in nearly any outdoor activity you can think of, or to simply relax and take in the beauty of our surrounding environment. If you've got a green thumb, with a 3.5 month-long growing season and a 4B growing zone, you can have your own garden or even a hobby farm.

I made the move to a subdivision in town and appreciated the freedom my four children were allowed in our neighborhood. I still feel like a big city gal who is in love with small town life. 100 Mile House has been an excellent place to raise my family, achieve my professional goals, and find an amazing life partner.

More employment, your way

Established industries in the area include agriculture, forestry, retail, and tourism, and there's plenty of room to grow to meet the increasing consumer demand for locally sourced goods, regional experiences, and key residential and tourist services.

Remote work

Remote, online workers are choosing 100 Mile House for its affordable homes with room for dedicated office space, full cell phone coverage, high-speed internet connection, and year-round recreational activities. We've levelled up our local digital economy to meet your workplace needs.

Whether you arrive as a young professional or with a family, you'll love our central location and friendly community, with the 100 Mile lifestyle as an extra pay cheque.

Community, sense of home, and people supporting each other are all reasons I love 100 Mile House. I have secured employment working with one of the best mechanic teams I've ever been a part of, purchased a home, and I'm busy enjoying an outdoor lifestyle, which is one of the many amenities the Cariboo has to offer.

Common questions

Is there garbage and recycling pickup?

Yes, we have scheduled curbside pickup for garbage and recycling. Plus we have a full-service local recycling depot.

How about high speed internet and cell service?

High speed internet is available in town, and cell coverage extends to all portions of the community.

Are there bears?

You will often see deer in your yard, but bear sightings are more rare and typically occur during the spring and fall.

I just moved here now what?

There are many opportunities to engage in your community, whether it is through an employment opportunity, volunteering, exploring outdoor activities, or attending events.

Why not join or coach a sports team? We have a large group of artisans in the area and encourage you to try a new hobby you finally have the time to explore.

Uniquely 100 Mile House

100 Mile House was named for being a major stopping house on the historic Cariboo Waggon Road, 100 miles from Lillooet (Mile 0) en route to the Cariboo Gold fields.

There are more than 3,000 lakes in the South Cariboo. Many have not even been mapped.

The World's Largest Cross-Country Skis are a unique roadside attraction that celebrates cross country skiing in our area and offers a great photo opportunity. The skis are 39 feet long with 30-foot ski poles. Wow!
